TERMS & CONDITIONS

PRECISION PC | Service Agreement & Work Order

1. Authorization, Estimate & Communication

Diagnosis is free; a service call applies to each visit (Section 6). No repair work beyond diagnosis begins until the customer approves an estimate in writing, by email, or by text. If the cost would exceed the approved estimate by more than the amount written on the front of this form, Precision PC will ask for approval before continuing. Precision PC will contact the customer right away if anything unexpected is found, before any additional work or cost. The customer confirms they own the device or have the authority to approve service. For a quick fix during a service call, the customer's written YES to the booking text, which links these terms, is their agreement to them. A customer who cannot reply by text agrees to these terms by phone, noted in writing by Precision PC with the date and time, and signs this form before any work begins. If the device owner is under 18, a parent or guardian approves the work, signs this form and pays, and is the customer under this agreement.

2. Data Backup & Privacy

The customer is responsible for backing up all data before service. Precision PC is not responsible for the loss or corruption of data, software, or settings, including from failing drives, malware cleanup, operating system repairs, or the repair work itself, except for gross negligence or willful misconduct (Section 4). The device and its files are accessed only to complete the requested work and are not copied, shared, or retained, except where the service requires it (such as a data transfer); temporary copies are deleted afterward.

3. Risks of Repair Work

Electronics, especially older devices and laptops, can fail during disassembly, cleaning, replacement of thermal paste, pads, putty, phase-change material or liquid metal, BIOS updates, or testing. Components may already be worn, fragile, or damaged in ways that cannot be seen beforehand. Precision PC will work with reasonable care, but cannot guarantee that a device with an existing fault, age-related wear, or hidden damage will survive service or be repairable. Precision PC is not responsible for pre-existing damage or conditions, including brittle plastics, worn ribbon cables, stripped or seized screws, failing components, liquid damage, or earlier repairs by others. Opening or servicing a device may void the manufacturer's warranty, and the customer accepts that risk. The same applies to performance tuning such as overclocking or undervolting, which is stability-tested before return, but results vary by hardware and no specific performance gain is guaranteed. The customer confirms the answers about prior service on the front of this form are accurate to the best of their knowledge.

4. Limitation of Liability

To the extent permitted by Massachusetts law, Precision PC's total liability for any claim related to the services is limited to the amount the customer paid for the service in question. Precision PC is not liable for indirect or consequential losses, such as lost data, lost income, downtime, or the cost of replacing the device. Nothing in this agreement excuses gross negligence or willful misconduct, or limits any right that cannot be waived under law.

5. 30-Day Guarantee

All work is guaranteed for 30 days from the date it is completed, or from the date the device is returned for bench work. If the same problem comes back within that time, Precision PC will fix it again at no charge, including the trip. The guarantee does not cover anything the customer causes afterward (such as a drop, a spill, or their own overclocking or other changes), unrelated faults, or parts that carry a manufacturer's warranty (those follow the manufacturer's terms, with Precision PC's help); Precision PC's labor to fix a problem it caused is always covered. A customer who is not satisfied should contact Precision PC within 30 days for a free recheck or redo; cash refunds are not given for work completed as agreed.

6. Payment & Parts

Precision PC accepts cash, check, card (tapped in person), or bank transfer (ACH) through a secure Stripe invoice. Bank transfers count as received once they clear, which can take up to four business days. The service call is paid at the visit, and repairs are paid in full when the device is returned; payment plans are not offered. If a check is returned or a payment is reversed or not made, the customer still owes the full amount, plus any fee Precision PC's bank charges for the returned payment, within 7 days of notice. Unlisted work is billed at Precision PC's posted hourly rate, per the approved estimate. Each visit includes up to about 30 minutes of on-site work; longer work is done at the bench or, if it can only be done on site, billed hourly (1-hour minimum) with the customer's approval. No fix, no repair fee: there is no repair charge if the reported problem is not resolved; the service call still applies. For custom builds, the customer may buy the parts directly, or Precision PC may order them at cost, with receipts, plus a $25 handling fee. Parts and the handling fee are paid by cash, check or bank transfer before anything is ordered. Build sheet prices hold for 7 days, and if the parts total rises by more than $25 before ordering, Precision PC will ask first. Parts for a repair under $100 are billed with the repair; larger parts orders are paid, by cash, check or bank transfer, before ordering (by check, once it clears). When Precision PC orders the parts, build labor and add-ons are paid upfront with them and refunded if the build is cancelled before work begins; otherwise they are due on delivery. Once Precision PC orders parts, their cost and the handling fee are not refundable. If a build is cancelled, the customer takes the parts; on request, Precision PC will try to return them and pass along whatever the retailer refunds, minus restocking fees and return shipping. Damaged or defective parts are handled through the retailer or manufacturer, with Precision PC's help. Devices and builds are released once the amount due is paid in full (a check counts as payment); a partial payment does not release them. Each visit has one service-call fee, set by town and confirmed at booking. It is separate from, and not credited toward, any repair. It covers the trip out and, for bench work, the return, whether or not the repair goes ahead. Trips to finish the job or under the 30-day guarantee are included. Greenfield visits have no service call. A new problem, an extra trip the customer asks for, or an extra trip caused by a customer-supplied part that does not match Precision PC's part list is a new service call. If no one is present within 15 minutes of the booked time, or the customer cancels after Precision PC has set out, the service call for that trip is owed (Greenfield visits have no charge).

Payment questions and disputes. By paying, the customer confirms they are authorized to use the payment method and approves the charge for the work and parts described on this form. If there is a question about a charge, please contact Precision PC first so it can be fixed quickly. If a charge is disputed, Precision PC may provide the relevant signed forms, estimates and receipts to its payment processor or the customer's bank. Nothing here limits the customer's right to dispute a charge with their bank or card issuer.

7. Return & Abandoned Devices

Precision PC takes and returns devices at the customer's address or an agreed public spot. If the customer declines the repair, the device is returned as received, at no extra charge. Devices not accepted back within 90 days after written notice that they are ready are considered abandoned and may be recycled or sold to recover costs, after the drive is wiped. Reasonable attempts to reach the customer will be made first. Only the customer named on the front, or a person the customer authorizes in writing, may receive the device.

8. Lifetime Build Support

Custom builds include free troubleshooting and diagnosis, help with manufacturer warranty claims (RMAs), one dust-out per year, and driver and BIOS updates for as long as the original customer owns the PC. Replacement parts are not included unless covered by the manufacturer's warranty, and visits use the service call for the customer's town. This support is a service commitment, not a warranty on the parts.

9. General

This agreement is between the customer and Benjamin Wheeler, doing business as Precision PC, Greenfield, Massachusetts. It is the full agreement between the parties and is governed by Massachusetts law. If any part is found unenforceable, the rest remains in effect.
